Press Release

For Immediate Release

Shockwave Karting is pleased to announce that it has signed on as class sponsor for the Florida Winter Tour. Shockwave karting will be sponsoring the Stock Moto class. We strongly feel that the stock moto concept will be the back bone of the resurgence of shifter based karting, particularly at the local/regional level.

We also are pleased to announce the introduction of the Shockwave Karting chassis which we will be showcasing in the Stock Moto and the Rotax International classes with Greg Welch driving. We feel these two classes will become the basis for many regional series next year, and we want to support them.

"The Florida Winter Tour just seemed like the right place for us to introduce our new chassis line", said Shockwave founder Doug Welch. "Bill Wright has built a very loyal following in Florida, and we to have a strong customer base in there for Shockwave Karting components. Add to that the strong customer base in Florida for Mike Wilson designed chassis and the timing couldn't be better", added Doug.

The base of the Shockwave chassis is a frame designed and built by multi time World Champion Mike Wilson in Italy. We then powder coat them here in the USA and finish them using our components. Each kart is hand built to our customer's specification in our factory. If you are an off-the-shelf driver, then an off-the-shelf kart will be fine. But if not, why buy a kart that the first thing you have to do is disassemble it and put it together right! Our karts come fully assembled, ready to race with the components you want. The price for these chassis is no more than an off-the-shelf kart.

Our chassis is available now and will be available from selected dealers just in time for the 2006 racing season.
